Note to sponsor

The person whose name appears above (the applicant) is applying for an international management development program designed for executives who wish to broaden their perspectives, enhance their capabilities, and seek action-oriented approaches to creating the future they desire. The Program Directors have designed a critical role for the sponsor in the program journey, and seek both your commitment and your input through this document.

In terms of commitment, by accepting the role of sponsor you are assuring both IMD and the applicant that you will support his or her development efforts. Each individual is different, making it difficult to detail the exact form of this support; at the very least, once the applicant has been accepted into the program you should expect to:

1. Review the applicant's pre-program statement on the future he or she wants to create and provide feedback
2. Review a "Sponsor Letter" written to you by the applicant part way through Module 1 to update you on progress and raise any questions or issues, and provide feedback as appropriate
3. Contribute to the applicant's intended development plan and progress

In terms of input, the Program Directors pay particular attention to the information you provide on this form and cannot reach a decision on an application until both this form and the candidate's PED Application Form have been completed and submitted. You should only complete and sign this PED Sponsorship Form if you personally know the candidate and are willing to accept the responsibilities outlined above. The information you provide on this form is strictly confidential and should be returned directly to IMD's Information and Registration Office.
